Our London Letter.

THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

HONOUR TO CHARLES DARWIN'S WORK.

AN HISTORIC RESIDENCE.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

London, Sept. 2nd.
No Presidential address of the British Association can, perhaps, be styled "popular," but that delivered this week at the opening of the gathering of savants at Leeds came near the description. The President, Sir Arthur Keith, Professor of Anatomy at the Royal College of Surgeons, dealt with the descent of man, and he was entirely on Darwin's side. Darwin had to leave many pages blank; he said, that science has been able to fill in, but the outline of the great pioneer's narrative of the origin of the human race remains unshaken. He went on to picture the advent of a time when men of science at home and abroad will unite to find the solution of problems of Imperial concern.

Message From The Prince.

Last year the Prince of Wales was President of the Association, and that fact was gratefully characterised by Sir Arthur Keith as "the Prince's year." The Association were reminded of this by the reading of a cable from the Prince, passing on the mantle to his successor. The Prince is now in Canada, and it was natural that his message should have a flavour of Empire in urging the vital link between scientific research and Imperial progress and development. This led to the President's hope for greater unity among scientists to which I have already referred.

Another point of general interest apart from the papers and discussions was the proposal of the Council of the British Association for the institution of a movement for the re-education of the nation of the home and surroundings at Down House, in Kent where Charles Darwin did his great work for science in propounding his epoch-making theory on the Origin of Man. It is pleasant to know that the house, the gardens, and the surrounding fields still remain exactly as they were when Darwin lived and moved in their midst.

Of course, nobody imagines that Darwin's memory itself will ever fade, for his work is his monument, but it is a fine idea to preserve for successive generations the place which he loved, just as Shakespeare's birthplace is perpetuated. There is no doubt that the Council will find generous support for their scheme.

Haddon Hall.

There was an interesting gathering this week at Haddon Hall, the historic home of the Duke of Rutland, when eighty workmen who have been engaged in the work of restoration were entertained by the Duke at a luncheon, at which also there were present Violet, Duchess of Rutland, and the young Marquis of Granby. The work of restoring the famous old house, which has been celebrated in song and story, and will always be associated with Dorothy Vernon, has been proceeding for the last twenty years. It is now to be used as a residence after being uninhabited for about 200 years.

The Duke of Rutland made a charming little speech in the course of which he dealt with the history of Haddon Hall since the time of William the Conqueror; and afterwards he exhibited historical documents that had been brought from Belvoir Castle, containing curious and interesting details about the early owners of the Hall. Before his guests left his Grace presented each one of them with a small silver box engraved with a picture of Haddon Hall, and bearing inside the name of the workman.

NATURE STILL FORMING OIL.

METHODS ARE DUPLICATED
IN RECENT DISCOVERY.

GERMAN SAVANT'S PRO- NOUNCEMENT.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

The natural formation of petroleum is not a thing of the past, said Dr. Hans Tropsch of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute, Munich, in an address before the Institute of Chemistry of the American Chemical Society here. Nature's most likely methods in making petroleum are probably duplicated in the recent discovery of the method of its synthesis from water gas, he said.

Any of the ordinary fuels, whether of high or low grade, can be converted, he said, into water gas, a mixture of hydrogen and carbon in a current of steam, of natural gas such as methane, ethane and others.

Either natural gas or water gas can be used as a starting point for the preparation of gasoline, naphtha, lubricating oil or paraffin wax by the recently discovered catalytic processes.

These processes are similar to those in operation in Germany, France and the United States for producing wood alcohol, formerly made exclusively from wood, and in Germany for the manufacture of synthetic petrol.

Dr. Tropsch pointed out that in the industrial production of synthetic or synthetic gasoline, no refining process of any sort is necessary. In the present petroleum practice, the removal of sulphur from gasoline has been estimated to have cost American motorists about $50,000,000 per year.

Following his statement of the processes in the graduation of synthetic gasoline, Dr. Tropsch concluded: "There are, therefore, indications existing from which we can conclude that at least part of the natural crude oil was formed inorganically with the help of catalysts. From this possibility we may conclude that even today, under favourable conditions, crude oil is formed other than from animal residues."

Another War Film.

Prior to its public presentation the latest British war film, "The Somme," was shown this week at the Marble Arch Pavilion to a private audience. I consider it an advance on its predecessors, "Ypres" and "Arras," both in photographic technique and in realism. Behind "Ypres" there was a "naturally dramatic story," and "Ypres" had a naturally dramatic background. The fighting on the Somme was a confused long-drawn-out struggle, a welter of blood and mud, and of countless deaths, and of enormous sacrifices that were won at enormous cost. In a wonderful way this atmosphere is preserved in the film, which is dominated by mud, machine guns, and muzzled attacks.

The individual episodes are fewer than in earlier films. The picture of war is about as realistic as re-enactment for screen purposes and public exhibition will allow of what happened on the Somme.

Viscount Churchill.

An engagement which has excited much interest is announced this week—that of Viscount Churchill, who is a favourite in Court circles. He has been Lord-in-Waiting to Queen Victoria and to King Edward, and during the present reign he has been much in evidence at Court functions of various kinds. Although over sixty, Lord Churchill is still one of the handsomest and best dressed men in London. He is very much sought after during Ascot Week, as upon him devolves the duty of deciding who should or should not have the entrance to the Royal Enclosure.

Apart from his official duties, Viscount Churchill is chairman of the Great Western Railway Company. He was formerly Conservative Whip in the House of Lords, and was the last Master of the Royal Buckhounds, an office which has been dispensed with, seeing there are now no buckhounds. His first wife, whom he divorced on the grounds of desertion, was Lady Verena Maud Lovell, a daughter of the third Earl of Constance. His new bride-to-be is Christine, the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sinclair-H.B.

JUDICIAL TRIBUNAL HAS NO JURISDICTION.THE QUESTION OF RIGHT
RAISED AT SHANGHAI.

The "case" of Longfellow, and Adams, Inc. v. Robert Dollar Co. in which the plaintiff sues the latter for wrongful detention of merchandise in the custody of defendant's warehouse, as a result of the enforcement of surtax and luxury tax imposed upon the imported goods by the Nationalist Government, was dismissed by Commissioner Nelson E. Lorton at the United States Court for China, Shanghai, last Saturday morning. The Commissioner intimated that a judicial tribunal had no jurisdiction over the case, which involves the question of treaty and diplomatic relationship between America and China.

The conclusion of the lengthy judgment read:—
"It seems that the main question herein involved develops into a purely political one, and must be settled by the Executive Department of our Government, and that it belongs to diplomacy and not to the administration of the law. Whether or not our Executive Department chooses to settle this question, or to disregard it, is not within the purview of this Court. The plaintiff must look to the Executive Department for such relief as it may deem itself to be entitled to."

In view of the whole situation as found by the Court, it is regrettable that circumstances over which the parties hereto have no control should ever prevail. It seems that a certain faction of the Chinese people have assumed control of their Government's Customs at Shanghai, and in the face of binding treaties which to any country maintaining the high standard of civilization should be scrupulously executed, have totally disregarded them. Whether the present treaty between the United States and China are just or unjust to either side, they have been entered into under the most solemn and profound conditions, and agreed to by the highest officials of both of these countries. Until a revision of these treaties has been made by a convention between these two countries, it certainly behooves both sides to use the utmost endeavor to see that they are executed according to their full tenor.

The plaintiff in the present case has been put to the task of bringing a suit to endeavour to determine its rights in the premises. The defendant has equally been subjected to expense on having to defend this suit in which it has been found that in its actions it has complied with the law.

The Court cannot give the relief sought by the plaintiff, and must pass judgment on the issues, which are more in the nature of questions of law than on the full merits of the case.

It is accordingly found that the petition brought by the plaintiff fails for want of jurisdiction by this Court over the subject matter, and is accordingly dismissed.

THE CLASH OF OLD AND NEW.A DAILY SCENE IN HONG KONG.BY L. FORSTER, PROFESSOR OF EDUCATION, THE UNIVERSITY,
HONG KONG.

The following article which Prof. Forster, who is now in England on leave, has contributed to the "Westminster Gazette," will be read with interest.

It is always pleasing to stand at the confluence of two streams and watch the mingling of the two smaller volumes of water to form a stronger and more vigorous flow. Sometimes the joining waters are not of equal strength, nor of equal purity, and so they proceed along after the junction side by side, and are easily distinguishable for a considerable distance. It is infinitely more interesting to watch and meditate on the junction and the mingling of two civilisations which outwardly are so separate and disparate as those of the east and the west.

There is a very busy street in Hong Kong leading to Pokfulam. It contains a Sanitary Department Office, a Government School, a University Hostel, numerous shops, and at the side of the road a tree. Because the tree is tall and once fair to look upon, and especially because it grows upon the side walk and does not therefore interfere with the motor-car driver, it has been spared. Trees must not impede motor traffic. Through the street there pass the bullock carts belonging to the sanitary department, there are rickshaws, heavy

THE FINANCES OF HANKOW.BIG DEPRECIATION OF THE
CENTRAL BANK NOTES.

SHORTAGE OF RICE AND SALT.

The situation in the Wuhan cities over the week-end grew worse, states the Central China Post of September 19th. The fall in the exchange which set in on Saturday was not checked, and on Saturday night and Sunday Central Bank notes were being offered for almost anything in silver that could be obtained. Shopkeepers fought as shy of them as possible and their purchasing value fell to two copper cents per dollar while the notes of the large denominations were unchanged. The same applied to Bank of China notes as well. No small money exchangers would accept them and most of the cash shops declined to do business at all and closed up.

One result of the fall was a wild rush on the pawn shops. People were afraid that these would demand silver as the notes appeared to be on the point of total collapse, and hundreds besieged these places to get back their pledges before this could happen. The rush continued throughout yesterday, but none of the pawn shops showed any reluctance to accept the notes which they had paid out.

Whether there is a real shortage or a fictitious one it was hard to ascertain, but yesterday the price of copper rose considerably from a quoted rate of 400 coppers for the silver dollar to 310 and 330 all-gerly on account of the shortage of this metal. The shortage may be created either by the reluctance of money exchangers to handle notes or by the hoarding of coppers for other purposes.

In the market copper could purchase meat at the usual price, but in bank notes it was two dollars per catty, mainly in order to avoid giving change. Where rice was purchasable the cheapest price was three shen for a one dollar (Central Bank note), and two shen of the bigger "real" notes, with no change given. Other commodities were in the same proportion. Treasury notes were entirely unusable.

While only a few of the rice and salt shops closed their doors, many of those who remained open stated that they had no stocks, but it is reported in native circles that the shortage is not so bad as it might appear as all rice has not been sold. A great deal of it, it is said, has been removed to a safer place until such time as the bank note question is solved. "We could obtain no profits that such was the case, but it is possible in view of the marked reluctance of the bulk of the merchants to handle paper currency, and the impossibility of purchasing fresh stocks with it."

SIR HUGH CLIFFORD'S
INDIAN TOUR.

COST OF SPECIAL TRAINS.

CAR MAINLY FOR CEREMONIAL PURPOSES.

A claim for Rs. 7,200 has been presented to the Ceylon Government by the South Indian Railway Company in respect of the special trains used by Sir Hugh Clifford during his tour in South India in April and May, 1927. As there are no funds available under the vote for "Travelling," to meet this claim, the Finance Committee is invited to agree to a supplementary vote being taken for the amount.

Duty on Sir Hugh's Car.

Sir Hugh Clifford has represented to Government that his Wolseley car (which he recently exported from Ceylon) was, though purchased and imported into Ceylon at his expense, used during his tenure of office as Governor of Ceylon, mainly for ceremonial purposes and for tours through the country. He suggests for consideration that it would be equitable to refund to him at least the amount of the duty paid.

This car was imported from London on November 20th, 1925. The declared value was Rs. 9,000 and duty was paid at the rate of 10 per cent, which was then in force, i.e., Rs. 900. Further sums of Rs. 14,900 as first rent and harbour dues and Rs. 81.95 as second harbour dues were also paid. There is no provision in the Customs Ordinance under which such a refund could be made, the only course possible is a special vote of the Legislature.

The Finance Committee is invited to approve a supplementary vote of Rs. 900.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS
SHOULD EAT.

STRICT DIETS UNNECESSARY.

It is a well known fact that some people have a great tendency than others to "go wrong" in their diet, and that by limiting one's diet to certain tasteful, unspiced foods, stomach troubles can sometimes be overcome. Nine times out of ten, however, indigestion is due to excess acid and food fermentation. Instead, therefore, of going on starvation diets, stomach sufferers can eat what they like if they will only get rid of the excess acid and stop the fermentation. To do this quickly, safely, and surely, take half-a-cupful of "Fasquid" Maltose or two or three tablets in a little water right after eating or whenever pain is felt. This instantly neutralises the acid, stops the food fermentation, and heals the inflamed stomach lining. Get a package of "Fasquid" Maltose from your chemist to-day; use as directed, and you can eat what you like without fear of pain or discomfort to follow.

PRINCESSES OF COMMERCE.

WOMEN WHO HAVE MADE
FORTUNES.

[BY GERALD BARBER.]

Recently a veteran peer confessed frankly that he does not like the present tendency of women to go into business, and he declared that "a woman might make a moderate success but she can never hope to make a fortune. They are not built for big business."

This view is not in accordance with the facts. We have women in our midst to-day who are proving their abilities to direct great enterprises. Lady Rhonda has not only conserved the interests left by her ill-fated father, but by her own instinctive skill in commerce has developed enterprises which now calculated their revenue in figures beyond the visions of their founder.

It was only a few years ago that Miss Holmes went into the city with confident predictions from the knowing men of Threadneedle Street that although there were many things a woman could do, she would fail in pitting her wits against the lords who live and work in the august shadows of the Stock Exchange and the Bank of England.

Winning Out.

But the young woman who was "just herself" in her office has grown to be head of a financial concern with a big turnover and mistress of an army of accountants and clerks.

The dream of Miss Grace Jeffries as she used to roam the Tyneside at Newcastle in her childhood was to go to sea. Fate ruled otherwise. She proved so successful in a London office that she became the first woman shipping agent in the capital, and she developed an enterprise of a kind which has astonished old and experienced shipping firms. It may be that we have not yet produced the woman millionaire whose wealth has been made by her own abilities.

But the fact cannot be used as an argument against them. Their advent into big business is too recent. They have not yet had the time.

Women Millionaires.

But no British woman in business is likely to be deterred by a warning that she cannot hope to make a fortune. For in the romance of millionaires there are not a few members of her own sex. Mrs. Betty Green inherited a fortune of over half a million from her father and decided to use it in business. She lived in a flat in an old house, a week and would not allow herself more than ten pounds a week for house-keeping money.

Mrs. Green practically lived in her office, for she was there daily from eight until sundown, buying and selling land and stocks, besides personally conducting other big financial operations. And she made a fortune estimated at over £100,000,000.

The insignificant beginnings of Mrs. King was as a daughter of a Presbyterian missionary who had a wee salary and many months to feed. She had no influence and no experience; her one asset was the definite strain of Scotch shrewdness blended with the western spirit of adventure.

A Ranch Queen.

Mrs. King is an example which completely challenges the old-fashioned notion that women cannot handle big business or hope to win millions, for her fortune was wholly self-made.

The buying of a small ranch signalled her change of fortune. It has less than half the size of that owned by the Prince of Wales. By her own keenness for bargaining, and her skill in dealing in cattle on a large scale, her little ranch grew to the astonishing magnitude of more than a million acres. Her wages bill rose from little more than £100 a year to over £25,000.

There is another example of the business acumen of the fair sex—one which challenges the prestige of the male financier in the stock markets. It is found up in the career of Mrs. Ella Reader.

As a girl she had to earn her own living and began as a desk clerk in a newspaper office. At the same time she augmented her income by the familiar but often disapproved spare-time home-employment of envelope addressing. The two jobs, however, taught her much, and as soon as she had saved a little capital, she started a press cutting agency and a shorthand bureau.

WHAT UNEMPLOY- MENT COSTS.

GERMANY'S GREAT BURDEN.

[BY DR. OSKAR WINGEN.]

Germany's most difficult political, economic and social problem continues to be, in an unchanged degree, the enormous amount of unemployment prevailing throughout the country. The figures for the year 1926 varied between 1,300,000 and 2,000,000, and in the opening months of 1927 between 1,600,000 and 1,800,000.

This terrible unemployment means, in the first place, a most severe burden upon industry and finance. On March 1st, 1927, the total of the fully unemployed was 1,600,000; and as another 1,500,000 persons were dependent upon them, a few more than 3,000,000 people were without any income of their own, and had to be supported by the rest of the population. At the present time, the out-of-workers are cared for by the Welfare Unemployment Assistance Scheme, which, in 1926, cost the Reich the enormous sum of 1,200 million Marks; in other words, Germany had to provide as much for the support of an unproductive host of unemployed as she did to meet Reparation charges!

Economic Loss.

But the economic loss is much greater on account of the number of man-hours lost and the loss of income on the part of the out-of-workers. In the year 1925, the Berlin Institute for Crisis Investigation calculated that, in consequence of unemployment, German industry lost 5,750 million man-hours of which only 10 million hours were due to industrial struggles. Assuming, for an aggregate of 20 million workers, an average of 48,000 million man-hours, the loss for 1926 would work out at 12 per cent. If the out-of-workers and part-time workers had been normally employed throughout the year 1926, they would have earned at least 4,000 million Marks. Taking into account the 1,200 million Marks expended on unemployment doles, German economy has thus experienced through unemployment a minimum loss of national income aggregating 2,800 million Marks, or 300 million Marks more than it is required to produce for a normal year's payment under the Dawes Plan.

1,500,000 Unemployed.

As matters stand at the moment, Germany will have to reckon with a total of about 1,500,000 unemployed for several years to come. The alleviation of the labor market in consequence of an improvement in the economic situation is likely to be almost neutralized by the discharge of hands resulting from organizational and technical betterments in trade and manufacture. Hence, the problem of unemployment, which, at the time the Dawes Report was drawn up, played but a relatively unimportant part, has become today the dominating question in German economy. Albeit the system of Welfare Unemployment Assistance is being converted into an Unemployment Insurance Scheme, the decisive fact remains that a large portion of the population has to be supported by the rest.

Considering further that, for the support of her war cripples and for war pensions, Germany has to spend about 1,300 million Marks annually, these two items alone mean an annual unproductive expenditure of 2,500 million Marks, or, exactly the normal sum total of an annual Dawes payment.

Huge Enterprise.

Her first business venture was not good enough—so she fearlessly entered the financial markets. In a short time she had built up a huge enterprise with a capital of 22,000,000.

At various times she found she had to pit her wits against Mr. Ogden Armour, Mr. Pierpont Morgan, even against our own House of Lords and many leading British magnates. Yet she made a fortune and then married an Englishman whom she had met during one of her big business deals.

Therefore, it is obvious that there is no natural law or any other obstacle against women becoming merchant princesses and making huge fortunes. The self-made British woman millionaire is sure to arise. It is only a matter of time.

THE FILM INDUSTRY.

THE WOMEN WORKERS OF HOLLYWOOD.

MARRIAGE AND A CAREER.

Many women in America have solved the modern girl's problem of how to combine marriage and career, but none so successfully as the women working in the film industry. In some measure this is due to their salaries, which are often as high as those also upon the fact that men and women have worked side by side at this profession since its beginning, in every branch of it, and with complete equality. There was no prejudice to live down first, no bitter fight to make pay equal. In some branches, indeed, women make up 75 per cent. of the personnel.

Few people realise what an enormous staff of people is employed besides the actors and actresses. When I looked at the Metro-Goldwyn studio recently, the place was full—at least two hundred people sat there—and only two were actresses. Directing and photography are the only sections which women have not yet entered in large numbers, though in a recent German film, "Aftermath," much of the camera work was done by a woman. At Hollywood there has been only one outstanding woman director, Lois Weber, who retired some time ago with a nervous breakdown and two million dollars, but has recently come back. Some stars have at one time or another directed their own pictures, but all gave it up after a first attempt, and there is only one other woman recently promoted to a directorship. This is Miss Dorothy Arzner, an attractive, young, dark-haired, and very capable-looking girl, who is at present at work on her second film, "The Modern Commandments" for Famous Players. The first she directed was "Fashions for Women." Miss Arzner, after directing an ambulance in France, started seven years ago at Hollywood, at the bottom of the ladder, as script girl to Director James Cruze. In those seven years she has done most of the work called for on a studio—plot-cutting, titling, writing, editing, even acting.

A Hard Day's Work.

As I watched her at work with her megaphone, it was clear to me why few women have taken to this job. The work is incredibly strenuous, everything and everybody has to be watched at the same time, scenes set, costumes judged, actors directed. A set may be prepared for an hour, rehearsed, considered, changed. The filming is done in a few seconds, but if one thing is wrong—background, lighting, expressions, movement—the whole thing has to be gone over again. Often the work goes on far into the night, and when, tired out, the workers might be expected to be allowed some rest, they go into the projection-room and see the "rushes" of the last day's work. The director must judge whether it will do, or will have all to be taken the next day. Maybe a dress has not been photographed as the director had hoped, or a scene has been "lost" in a few feet and must be reshot. Sometimes business and costume designer, and actress have to be consulted and a different dress arranged for. Innumerable and countless are the considerations director's tasks, and, as Miss Weber herself said, only those with a man's—and a strong man's—physique, and exceptional organizational powers, can stand it. But if they can, some people are of opinion that women directors are even better than men. Their appreciation of detail, their sympathy and understanding of other women, help the actress. It was interesting to watch Esther Ralston's quiet confidence in Miss Arzner as she carried out her instructions. Miss Weber has the making of several stars to her credit.

It is not only the directors who work hard at Hollywood; however. With all the accounts of frivolity and high living one reads, it is amazing to find these people among the hardest working of any profession. Actresses are best off because there is usually an interval between pictures when they can rest; but scenarists, dramatists, continuity writers, readers, designers, research-workers have to be on the job practically all the time. While one picture is under way they have to be preparing the next. All studios are always behind on their schedule.

If it is this hard work which makes the most longed-for and dreamed-of holiday for the movie-worker a long, tranquil vacation in Europe—in some quiet spot in Italy or an old house in Surrey. "It's eleven years since I had a holiday!" said one girl of about twenty-nine, whose salary is quoted at £20 a week.

Beach Palaces.

Another writer, married to an editor working on the same lot, said she was raising her prices and working longer all the time because she wanted to make enough to retire early. "Only it's difficult," she said, "because the more you make the more you are expected to." (Continued on next Column.)

THE MURDER OF MRS. MACKAY.

BOTH PRISONERS FOUND GUILTY.

CAREFUL AND IMPARTIAL SUMMING-UP.

SENTENCE RECEIVED STOICALLY.

The two Chinese who were charged with the murder of Mrs. Rose Mackay on August 24th were found guilty at the Supreme Court yesterday morning. The chief piece of evidence against them was the half of the forged one-dollar banknote which was found on one of the prisoners, the other half, whose possession was clearly traced to Mrs. Mackay being found near the scene of the crime.

When the sentence of death was passed upon the two prisoners, both showed complete stolidity, but as they were led away from the dock, the first prisoner broke down and wept.

The two men were found guilty purely on circumstantial evidence, but, as Mr. Justice J. R. Wood pointed out, it was the jury's duty to find whether there was any plausible hypothesis, but the jury found none after half an hour's deliberation. The case for the Crown was strong and complete and the prisoners had a very fair trial. Neither of them gave evidence, nor was any witness called on their behalf. The defence was that the Crown had not proved their case. The jury thought otherwise, and no one is likely to disagree.

Unanimous Verdict.

His Lordship, addressing the prisoners, said: You have had a fair trial. The evidence has been carefully considered by the jury and they have recorded a unanimous verdict that you are both guilty. Therefore my duty is to pass sentence of death upon you.

His Lordship then donned the black cap.

THE JUDGE'S SUMMING-UP.

Beyond All Reasonable Doubts.

Summing-up earlier in the morning His Lordship emphasised that the Crown had to prove the prisoners' guilt beyond all reasonable doubt for a verdict of guilty to be returned. The onus was on the Crown to prove its case and a Not Guilty verdict did not necessarily mean that the jury was satisfied of the innocence of the prisoner or prisoners, but merely that they were not satisfied that the case had been positively proved.

Referring to the case against the men as being based entirely on circumstantial evidence, His Lordship said that there were a number of circumstances involving the prisoners, any one of which might not involve them very much by itself. It was for the jury to sift them out and arrange them with a view of fitting them together to see if collectively they produced that feeling of certainty which was equivalent to the positive proof of eyewitnesses.

"No Obvious Loophole."

His Lordship emphasised that no greater degree of certainty was required in a capital charge than was required in any other case in which the services of a jury might be required and commented that one could not prove things with absolute certainty. The only thing one could do was to see that there was no obvious loophole.

His Lordship suggested that the key factor was whether the note, part of which was found on the path and part on the first prisoner, was or was not on that evening in the handbag of Mrs. Mackay.

There was no definite evidence, said His Lordship, that this note was in Mrs. Mackay's possession. It was not, for instance, identified by its number. It would, again, be proof if, for instance, one half had been found on the prisoner and the other in Mrs. Mackay's handbag. The fact remained that if they came to the conclusion that the note was the same as that found they would have come to it without definite evidence. The evidence on which the Crown invited the jury to find that the note was one previously in the possession of Mrs. Mackay was as follows:

Half of the note was found on a path which was on the direct route from the scene of the crime to the direction of Shaukiwan. It was found at 2 a.m. on the day following the attack and as it had not been picked up before it was fair to say that it had been dropped where it was found sometime after dusk—and the murder had taken place just before dark. Blood was on the half note found in the prisoner's pocket and blood was also in the handbag. Further evidence in support of the contention that the note was Mrs. Mackay's lay in the fact that it was a forged note and that Mrs. Mackay was known to have retained in her possession two such forged notes, one of which was actually left in the handbag. It was also in evidence that Mrs. Mackay had slit one of these notes with a pair of scissors and that the two parts of the note found on the path and in the possession of the first prisoner had also apparently been cut with scissors.

Points For The Defence.

There was a good deal to be said from the prisoner's point of view. There were certain factors in the Crown case which he did not want the jury to regard with undue importance. The first was that when arrested stains which the medical evidence went to show were of human blood were found on their clothing. In this connection it seemed to him that it was almost impossible for blood to have spurted on to the clothing of her assailants from the murdered woman. The first prisoner had stated that he had been suffering from bleeding boils and it was quite possible in view of the habits of men of his class that he had not changed his clothes for some time.

Regarding the suggestion of the Crown that the wounds on the deceased and the wound on the second prisoner's hand had been inflicted with a blunt instrument, therefore the instrument used had been the same, His Lordship emphasised that there were numerous such blunt instruments and he did not think importance should be attached to this point.

Another point was the statement of the first prisoner on arrest that the blood, or some of the blood, on his trousers was fish blood, a statement which had proved false. The Crown has put forward the suggestion that prisoner had fled from a guilty mind but, from a considerable knowledge of the behaviour of Chinese prisoners on arrest, His Lordship asked the jury

The Tell Tale Note.

The Crown asked them to find that the half found was Mrs. Mackay's. The evidence was that it was found at the same time and place as the wad of notes, and it was known that Mrs. Mackay had previously had a wad of notes in her handbag. Also found in the same place was the Wing On coupon.

The Coupon.

It was known that Mrs. Mackay made purchases which entitled her to such a coupon either the day before the murder and also that the coupon was issued at the counter where Mrs. Mackay made purchases. It was for the jury to say whether, putting all these facts together, there was sufficient for them to say that the coupon found on the path was that belonging to Mrs. Mackay. If they came to that conclusion, it immeasurably strengthened them in the conclusion that the half a forged note found on the same path also came from Mrs. Mackay's handbag.

Other Links In The Chain.

Additional evidence which the Crown alleged implicated these prisoners was as follows. They were arrested in Shaukiwan together twenty-four hours after the murder. When arrested, they were wearing clothing similar to that described by the only eyewitness of the incidents leading up to the murder. The two men were known to have been together on the flight of the murder and to have slept on board a boat when they were still wearing the clothes in which they were arrested.

A smaller point was that the two men had exactly the same notes in their possession. Another point concerned the wound on the hand of the second prisoner and the finding of blood inside the rigid handbag of the murdered woman. The jury must not, however, ignore the possibility, that the murdered woman before her death herself opened the bag to see what was taken. On the other hand, blood had also been found on a note in the possession of the first prisoner and a ten cent piece in the possession of a second prisoner.

IMPSONATING A POLICE INSPECTOR.

SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST QUEEN'S SERGEANT.

NOCTURNAL VISIT TO SAMPAH STREET.

Alleged to have impersonated a Police Officer, Sergeant Leonard Lowe, of the Queen's Regiment, faces a serious charge which was brought against him by the mistress of two Japanese houses of ill fame at Spring Garden Lane.

It was stated in evidence that the accused had been to one of the houses on the pretext that he was the No. 1 Police Inspector. He asked for the house register, which he signed and it is alleged, after staying for about two hours, he left the house with $5, money belonging to one of the inmates of the house.

Mrs. Yamashita, the mistress of No. 2 Sampah Street, said she first saw the accused one night towards the end of last month. The whole house was asleep at 2 a.m., when there came a loud knock on the door. One of the girls opened the door and the accused came in. He was not in uniform, but was wearing a white suit. The accused appeared to be very angry and the witness heard him say the word "Policeman."

Witness then became very scared and did not hear what was said. Afterwards the accused asked for the loan of $10, but the witness only gave him five $1 notes. The witness did this to keep the accused quiet. Accused stayed two hours in the house and then departed.

Toni Fujikawa, an inmate of the house, then testified to the accused's visit at 2 a.m. on August 23rd. He knocked rather loudly on the door. The witness saw that he was very drunk, and at first she hesitated to admit him. Eventually she let him in so as not to disturb the other people who were asleep.

Accused was wearing a "white civilian suit. Accused was very angry when he came in and said to the witness: "I am the No. 1 Police Inspector and I want to see your book." The witness showed accused the book, and he signed it.

Inspector Stinson explained that what the witness referred to was the house register.

"You Will Lose $200." Proceeding, the witness said that the accused also said to her: "Tomorrow you will go to the police station and you will lose $200 for not opening the door to the No. 1 Inspector." The witness apologised and said that she did not know his identity. Accused then said: "Next time you don't open quick I will take your licence and close No. 2. This time I will fix it up so that you will have to pay only $50."

About two or three weeks after the affair, the witness went to the Military Hospital and there picked the accused out of eight or nine soldiers standing in a row. She picked him out at once.

At this stage the case was adjourned until 11.30 on Monday morning next.

not to attach importance to this point, either. On the ground that it was impossible to say definitely that the second prisoner had not cut his hand with a knife, His Lordship also asked the jury not to attach too much importance to the evidence which had been given showing that it was unlikely that it could have been done in sharpening prisoner's nails.

Prisoner's Silence.

Considering the judge laid stress on the fact that prisoners had made no statement on arrest although the first prisoner had contended that he endeavoured to make a statement and was debarred from so doing. The police evidence on this point had, however, been emphatic. It was peculiar that, if these men were guilty of the attack, they should have made no attempt at having money in their possession—to get away from the vicinity of the murder and to change the clothes they were wearing at the time of the murder. Finally, His Lordship said that it was not a necessary inference that because the second prisoner had deposed to an early knowledge of the murder therefore he must have taken part in it.

Finally, His Lordship commented on the decision of the defence not to give evidence and on the absence of corroborative evidence of their having played "tin kau" on the night in question. Counsel had concentrated not on establishing prisoners' innocence but in holding that the Crown had failed to prove their case—a course which he was perfectly entitled to follow. The jury retired for thirty-five minutes and returned a verdict as stated above.

THE DIOCESAN BOYS' SCHOOL.

AUTUMN TERM IN FULL SWING.

CLASS ROOM AND PLAYING FIELD ACTIVITIES.

The Diocesan Boys' School term began three weeks ago. The Committee and the Headmaster have lost no time in adapting the Temporary Premises at Mongkok for a School. Grounds have been formed and a strong fence erected; there are also two hard tennis courts. A covered playground 60 feet will be built at the corner of Nathan Road and Prince Edward Avenue during the next six weeks. This term two cricket nets and cricket matting have been purchased and on most of the evenings of the week passers-by can see Tennis, Cricket and Football being played. The standard of Cricket at the school was never better, although there are weak places.

There are 67 boarders this term and about 160 Day Boys. The following appointments have been made during the year:

The Games Masters are—Mr. E. C. Thomas (Football), Mr. T. N. W. Chan (Tennis) and Mr. J. L. Young (Cricket).

Football Matches will begin next week; trial matches, senior and junior, having been held during the past week. In Cricket and Tennis the teams have already met with several successes. With regard to work there have been very few changes in the Staff. All boys must learn Chinese and several English and Eurasian boys are making steady progress in writing, reading and speaking.

Mr. Law Lok Tin, Senior Vernacular Master and Mr. Tse Tin Tsung, Late of the London Mission, and a Teacher who knows Mandarin and Japan in addition to Cantonese, have been revising the syllabus. Next year it is hoped to introduce Mandarin into the two Senior classes.

For Science, Chemistry and Physics, Classes 1 to 4 go to the Science room which was fitted up at the New School, now the General Hospital. Mr. Mr. J. L. Young, B.Sc., and Mr. A. G. Prow, B.A., both Old Boys and Graduates of the Hong Kong University, are the Science Masters.

CANTON SETTling DOWN.PREPARING TO OUST THE REDS.*A MOTOR LORRY EXPLOSION.

[FROM OUR CHINESE CORRESPONDENT.]

A favourable sign that Generals Li Tsai Hsin and Chang Fat Fui really intend to work together in Canton is the appreciation in the value of the Central Bank of China notes. They are now standing at about 70 per cent. as regards Hong Kong currency.

General Li Tsai Hsin is offering the post of Chief of Military Affairs to General Chang Fat Fui and the post of Chief of Police to General Chu Fei Yet, and it is believed that the two returned officers will accept. Mr. Tang Yin Wah, Chief of the Public Safety Department, has resigned and left Canton. He was said to be a Chiang Kai Shek man.

The two Generals, Li and Chang, are jointly undertaking the defence of Kwangtung against the Reds. The latter intend to attempt the invasion of the province from two quarters. One force is advancing from Sung Hao to Hing Ling, and another from Kitzang to Hoifung and Lukfung. In Canton this is regarded as bluff and it is believed that the Reds have already been driven out of Swatow. The defence of the Chinese section of the Canton-Kowloon railway has been entrusted to General Li Hon Yung, Commander of the 25th division of the 4th Army Corps.

A motor lorry transporting some explosives suddenly caught fire while passing the Wing Wo Mart at Shahu, east of Canton City, on Wednesday evening. It blew up causing the death of three persons and wounding more than 20. The driver of the lorry, who was apparently unhurt, is missing.

The Bank of the City of Canton, a new municipal enterprise, will formally open for business to-day. The bank was to have been opened several months ago but the recent activities of the Government and the Kuomintang have caused repeated postponements.

The General Chamber of Commerce in Canton has circulated its members against accepting banknotes issued by the authorities of Kiangsi, Hupeh, and Hunan Provinces. Canton authorities will have nothing to do with these currencies.

SWATOW SITUATION OBSCURE.

The Swatow situation remains obscure. According to our Chinese correspondent the "Reds" are still in possession of the seaport, but news of its capture by the Cantonese forces is expected at any time. A Communist Government has been proclaimed but Madame Sun Yat Sen is the only prominent personality mentioned.

Swatow, Sept. 29th.

Although the city seems a little quieter to-day, the situation is very obscure. The Communists are still in control, while the Cantonese gunboats have now left the port.

COME TO THE FAIR!TO-DAY'S M.C.L. AND WOMEN'S GUILD FETE.*STALLHOLDERS AT LEE GARDEN.

Everyone knows about the "Fun of the Fair" which is to be held to-day at Lee Gardens. It has been admirably advertised and a big crowd is expected for it promises to be a really good show—with its stalls, cabaret shows, Chinese conjuring, dragon procession and everything else that an alliance of British and Chinese ingenuity can devise. Most of the organisation of the fete has been done by the following:

In the evening dancing to Whitey Smith's orchestra is promised and there will be fireworks galore. However, you are asked not to wait to the evening but to come early. Admission, by the way, is only 50 cents, and 30 cents for soldiers and sailors in uniform.

Tickets for a motor car raffle will be sold on the grounds. All the ordinary raffles will be drawn at or before 6.30 p.m. and that the motor car raffle will take place a little later.

Pipers from the 2nd Battalion, The Scots Guards, the 2nd Battalion, The King's Own Scottish Borderers, the 2nd Battalion, The Cameronians will be at the fair, as well as the full military bands of the K.O.S.B.s, the Queen's Royal Regiment, and the Northamptonshire Regiment.

The objects are well known—the funds of the Hong Kong Women's Guild and the Ministering Children's League.

It is the stalls that are relied upon for the bulk of the profits and in this respect residents and institutions in the Colony have come forward splendidly, not only in giving their services on the day in question, but also shouldering the preparatory work and a fair proportion of the expense entailed in fitting up a really good stall.

It is sometimes said "Oh you only get rubbish at charity stalls." Well that isn't so. Far more often than not there are really good bargains to be had, and in any case the object in view should loosen the tightest purses.

To return to the stalls, however, they, and the ladies and gentlemen attending them, are as follows. So if nothing else tempts you, you at least know what your friends are doing, where you can find them—and the rest is easy!

CHINESE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.QUESTION OF TRADE IMPROVEMENT.*COMPLAINTS FROM HAWKERS.

A meeting of the general committee of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce was held yesterday afternoon.

The most interesting item on the agenda was a consideration of the ways and means suggested by some merchants for the improvement of local trade. Unfortunately the discussion on this subject took place in private.

There was a fairly large attendance of members present. Mr. Li Yau Tsun presided and was supported by Mr. Yick Moy, Vice-Chairman, and Mr. Ip Lan Chuan, general secretary.

The committee viewed with favour the Government suggestion that a committee might be appointed to look into the question of labour conditions in Hong Kong with a view to their improvement. If such a committee is formed the Chamber of Commerce will be willing to participate in the work.

Mr. T. N. Chau and Mr. Chau Yui Ting were asked to represent the Chamber on the Harbour Improvement Commission.

A number of communications from hawkers were read. The hawkers complain that they are now being persecuted by some of the Chinese police because previous complaints have led to the prosecutions of certain lokungs for extortions. The case of the hawkers is that out of revenge the police are assaulting or arresting them for the most trifling irregularities.

The complaints were referred to the Chamber's Executive Committee who will cause enquiries to be made.

CONSTABLES SQUEEZE.EVIDENCE OF HAWKERS.*SERIOUS ALLEGATIONS AGAINST SEVEN MEN.

Yesterday afternoon the seven constables including the one who jumped from a verandah and injured himself, were brought before Mr. R. E. Lindsell on a charge of receiving bribes. Mr. L. H. J. Booth prosecuted on behalf of the police.

Mr. A. E. Hall appeared for defence of 1st, 2nd and 6th defendants; Mr. L. D. Turner for 3rd and 4th, and Mr. E. Davidson for 5th, while the 7th defendant was unfettered.

Acting Sub-Inspector Dickson, in charge of the Hawkers Department, said that up to 1919 he had nine constables under his charge, seven of whom are the defendants. On the night of September 19th he detailed 4th defendant to patrol sections 3 and 4, and 3rd defendant to sections 5 and 6, from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. They have no right to enter any houses.

Sergeant Fitches said that at about 8.30 p.m. on September 19th, went with a party of detectives to No. 53, Square Street, ground floor. In the cockpit, he found Leung So, a hawker. He found a cigarette tin, which contained $11 (ten $1 notes and ten cents) also four pieces of paper (the 3rd piece with five 10-cent pieces wrapped up) bearing different names in Chinese characters. A man named Lam Lin came in and on him were found two Chinese envelopes each bearing the words "350" written in Chinese. One of the envelopes contained $50 and the other $15, the total being $65. Both men were taken to the Central Police Station.

Pass Words.

Leung So, licensed cloth hawker, said he had previous dealings with Tsang Kam (5th defendant). He was selling cloth in Possession Street when Tsang came up, and demanded to see his licence. He asked me to collect money on his behalf from hawkers, saying that I need not go to them as they would come to me. He also told me to give a password to every hawker who had given me 80 cents. On the Monday after this interview he came to me and asked how much I have received. I thereby handed him $18 odd, which represented payments from over 20 hawkers. Passwords are changed once every Saturday and payments from hawkers are handed over to him on every Monday.

He recognised 1st and 2nd defendants.

$50 In 7 Weeks.

Lam Lin, licensed hawker, living in 14, Square Street, 1st floor, said he had had dealings with 1st defendant, Li Lam. "In August he arrested me for calling out my wares while I was selling mirrors in Caine Road. Next day I was fined $1. A day later, when he met me in Hollywood Road, he threatened to arrest me whenever he saw me selling things, unless I would collect money from various hawkers (80 cents each) on his behalf. I agreed. He told me to go to the Sam Yuen tea house where a password would be given to me on every Saturday. As for the collection of money he said that I need not go to them as the hawkers would come to my house and pay me. I have been collecting for seven weeks.

"The proceeds as arranged, I took to a restaurant near the Western Market every Monday at 6.30 p.m. where he would be in readiness to receive the money. I have collected for him altogether no less than $50.

"Of the seven passwords which he gave me I only remember two, namely, Mooncake and Shun Tak. Li Lam told me that those who knew the password need have no fear of arrest. I myself had occasion to use those passwords six or seven times to the 4th and 6th defendants."

Mr. Davidson reserved cross-examination until next hearing.

20 Witnesses.

Mr. Booth told his Worship that he had about 20 witnesses and as the case progresses there may be more.

He then applied for reduction of bail, as he said the maximum penalty was only two years and not seven years as was stated before.

Mr. Booth objected, saying that defendants were Government servants, and the case must be regarded seriously. Reduction of bail was not granted. Defendants were formally remanded until next Friday at 10 a.m.

THE SANITARY BOARD wishes to draw the attention of the Public, and especially of those who have recently come to this Colony, to the possibility of acquiring diseases, e.g., typhoid and typhus fever by eating of uncooked vegetables. Disease-producing parasites are, therefore, possibly present on the surfaces of plants, e.g., Lettuces, over which the gardeners spray falls. D. In Canton, where at the best of times many cross-currents make the task of administration a difficult one, the arrival of General CHANG Far For probably appealed to these people as a wonderful opportunity for creating the trouble upon which they thrive. It was immediately suggested that General CHANG, an army commander with considerable reputation and backed by a force of well-trained men, would never accept a position subordinate to that of General Li. Then, anti-Li Tsai Hsin posters appeared in public places. There was talk of resignations. The atmosphere became charged with distrust. The commercial community were alarmed and the reaction on business was lamentable.

According to reports from all reliable quarters General Li Tsai Hsin and General CHANG Far For are perfectly prepared to do this amicably, together in the Government of the Kwang provinces, and it is the earnest hope of all foreigners, and of responsible elements among the Chinese community, that they will be enabled to do this. Their co-operation provides the only prospect of peace. Together they should be strong enough to keep the territory free from the marauding bands which are now the curse of China and they would have an opportunity of setting up an administration which might quickly win the respect of law-abiding people. If they divide their forces Canton will once more be torn by party conflict and become again a prize for the possession of which there will be constant warfare and never ending intrigue.

As we have previously pointed out the Kuomintang, at the moment, has ceased to exist as a great national party. There is a semblance of a Government at Nanking and another at Hankow, but neither one section nor the other can pretend to represent the people in such a way as would justify them in giving orders to Canton. General Li Tsai Hsin, we are again to understand, is particularly anxious that Nanking and Hankow should be united again as quickly as possible. He has himself, up to the present, been regarded as a supporter of Nanking whilst General CHANG Far For is looked upon as a nominal adherent of Hankow. Why should they not both forget such political differences for the time being and confine themselves to the task which lies immediately to their hand. The unification of the two sections of the party will neither be retarded nor hastened by such a policy and Kwangtung would benefit immeasurably.

The very persistent rumours current regarding the prospect of a conflict between General Li Tsai Hsin and General CHANG Far For, the two prominent military leaders in Canton, were apparently set in motion by a number of malcontents whose last desire is that peace and order should be restored in China. It is impossible even to approach a proper understanding of the political situation unless due regard is paid to the influence which can be wielded by the hundreds of agitators, "Reds" and bad characters, who shun honest work but know that they can always depend upon substantial "pickings" during any period of lawlessness and labour unrest. Such men have grown in numbers during the last two or three years until they are now a force to be reckoned with. They possess no loyalties, except perhaps loyalty to their own welfare, and will work as readily under the Kuomintang as under the "Red" standard. Their underground activities have been, and will continue to be, a menace to their country's true interests.

KUOMINTANG DIFFERENCES MORE THAN EVER EVIDENT.

"CHIANG KAI SHEK CLIQUE" CALL A MEETING AT HANGCHOW. AGITATING AGAINST THE NANKING ADMINISTRATION.

GENERAL TANG TOURING HUNAN ADVOCATING SUPPORT FOR WUHAN REGIME. CLAIMS THAT IT IS THE BONA FIDE KUOMINTANG ADMINISTRATION.

HOSTILITIES BREAK OUT BETWEEN FENGTIEN AND SHANSI.

Quite unexpectedly, hostilities have broken out between Shansi and Fengtien, the fighting taking place chiefly on the Peking-Suiyuan and Tientsin-Taiyuan Railways. The situation generally is thus made more than ever chaotic.

So-called "popular" meetings are being held in various parts of the country favourable to the "Chiang Kai Shek Clique" agitating against the Nanking Government and also advocating the claims of the Wuhan regime to be the bona fide Kuomintang administration. It is all very much of a Chinese puzzle, and it is extremely unlikely that those participating in those pseudo political plays know precisely what is their aim and object.

General Tang Seng Chi is reported to be touring Hunan endeavouring to convince all who will listen that he and his Wuhan colleagues form the only genuine section of the very much distracted Kuomintang.

A report has come to hand from Shanghai to the local native Press to the effect that Mr. Eugene Chen, who for many years was closely identified with the late Dr. Sun Yat Sen, is about to marry his widow, Mme. Sun Ling Sing. They are at present in Moscow among the real Russian "Reds," with whom evidently they have much in common politically.

HOSTILITIES BETWEEN SHANS AND FENGTIEN.

FIGHTING ON THE RAILWAY.

(Wah Ts Yat Pao.)

SHANGHAI, September 30th. The Shansi troops near Shuiyuan are engaging with the Fengtien. The Peking-Suiyuan Railway has been cut off. Eight trainloads of Fengtien reinforcements are being conveyed to Shuiyuan near Kalgan. Serious fighting both the Peking-Suiyuan and Tientsin-Taiyuan Railways is momentarily expected.

Marshal Chang's Orders. Marshal Chang Tso Lin has issued an order to the effect that during the war with Yen Shih Shan, the metropolitan area of Peking shall be placed under strict vigilance. He also ordered that the Kuomintang troops be immediately dispatched southwards to reinforce the Fengtien rear.

Shansi Mobilising. I view of the fact that the Fengtien are pressing towards Shansi subsequent upon the Shanghai troops' evacuation from Shihchiachung, General Yen Shih Shan, the dictator of Shansi, is rushing the mobilisation of his main forces including the transfer of a portion of his troops from Kalgan to Taiyuan, the capital of Shansi, so as to put up a strong defence in the province.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

How Hostilities Occurred. SHANGHAI, Sept. 30th. A Peking message, dated Sept. 29th, states that it is uncertain whether yesterday's clash at Chai-kowpu, west of Kalgan, will lead to a general war between Shansi and Shensi. It appears that Yu Chen, a former commandant of the Peking Metropolitan area was recently appointed Tientsin. At Chai-kowpu and took two Mukden brigades with him to Kalgan. On taking up the post this aroused the suspicions of the Suiyuan Tientsin, Shansi Chen, who is a subordinate of Yen Hsi Shian.

Shang Chen tore up the railway, apparently fearing a Mukden advance against Northern Shansi and afterwards opened fire. Hitherto there has been no news of the result of the fighting. Li Ching Fan and other Shansi delegates in Peking left for Taiyuan yesterday afternoon, stating that they were going in order to clear up the misunderstanding.

The situation at Shihchiachung is still quite calm. It is believed that Yen Hsi Shan does not desire a conflict with Mukden but some of his subordinates, including Shang Chen, are more pro-Kuomintang; hence the desire for a clash.

NAVAL ENGAGEMENT NEAR WOOSUNG.

(Wah Ts Yat Pao.)

SHANGHAI, September 30th. On the night of September 29th, three Northern cruisers, including the Haichi, suddenly appeared in the vicinity of the Woosung Fort with the apparent intention of attacking. The Chinese naval authority at Shanghai immediately dispatched five cruisers to meet them. The Southern fleet shelled the enemy when in sight of them. After a brief encounter, the Northern fleet sped away.

MUTINY IN NAVAL PRISON.

LIVELY AFFAIR AT TOULON.

100 PRISONERS RELEASED.

(REUTER'S AMERICAN SERVICE.)

TOULON, Sept. 30th. A mutiny broke out at the Naval Prison apparently as a protest against the food supplied. A dozen prisoners secured crowbars and similar weapons and smashed doors and windows, liberating about 100 of their comrades, who noisily demonstrated and committed much damage.

Maritime gendarmerie and armed bluejackets rushed to the prison, rounded up and forced the prisoners into one large room where they were individually secured and removed to Malbouquet Prison.

The din attracted dense crowds of neighbouring streets, and reinforcements of police were necessary to clear a way for the traffic.

DICTATOR CHANG AND HIS CHIEF OF STAFF.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

SHANGHAI, Sept. 30th. The fact that Chang Tso Lin sent the reactionary Tupan of Heilungkiang, Wu Chung Sheng, from Peking to Mukden to undertake control of Manchuria and ordered his Chief of Staff, Yang Yu Ting, to Peking, the possibility of friction between Chang Tso Lin and Yang Yu Ting, which may have a very important effect on the situation in North China.

NANKING'S CHOLERA SCARE.

(NAVAL WIRELESS.)

NANKING, Sept. 29th. The cholera outbreak, which caused so many deaths among the troops, is now practically clear, but measles has become prevalent in its stead.

Some of the disaffected troops which have been creating disturbances have been paid their back pay, and are now quieter. The Northerners continue to make slow progress towards Nanking, and it is reported that they have reached Chuchow.

MARTIAL LAW AT WUHU.

(NAVAL WIRELESS.)

WUHU, Sept. 29th. A modified form of martial law has been imposed here, coincident with the return from Anking of the Commissioner for Foreign Affairs. The military are in full control of the situation and among their recent actions has been the closing of all the labour unions.

TROOPS OCCUPY FOREIGN PROPERTY AT ICHANG.

(NAVAL WIRELESS.)

ICHANG, Sept. 29th. The residence of Mr. Mackenzie was occupied by troops, believed to be under the control of General Yang Sen, on Tuesday, but on a protest being made, they left the premises.

BRITISH SHANGHAI DEFENCE FORCE.

THE QUESTION OF COST.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

LONDON, Sept. 29th. Following his recent promise that the Shanghai Defence Force would not be involved in any further taxation, Mr. Winston Churchill, it is understood, has instructed the Treasury to obtain from the Spending Departments estimates for next year's expenditure in order to enable severe "pruning" to be carried out.

CHEKIANG'S TUPAN.

3,000 OF HIS TROOPS DISARMED.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

SHANGHAI, Sept. 29th. General Chow Feng Chi has resigned from the chairmanship of the provisional and military committees of Chekiang. It is reported that 3,000 of General Chow's troops at Hangchow have been disarmed.

MARSHAL CHIANG AT NAGASAKI.

"OBSERVING JAPAN'S PROGRESS."

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

OSAKA, Sept. 29th. Marshal Chiang Kai Shek has arrived at Nagasaki, on his way to Japan. He told reporters that he was visiting Japan to observe her progress in the past decade, and he was undecided whether he would go to America.

He only smiled when asked about his proposed marriage to Miss Soong Mei Ling.

BRITAIN AND SPAIN.

A "MYSTERIOUS" CONVERSATION.

SEMI-OFFICIALLY DENIED.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

PARIS, September 29th. Mystery surrounds the conversation which Sir Austen Chamberlain is today having with the Spanish Dictator, Primo Di Rivera.

Le Journal, Madrid correspondent says that the greatest secrecy is maintained as to the whereabouts of Primo Di Rivera. The Spanish censorship has ordered the newspapers not to publish anything about the matter.

The correspondent understands that the main topic of discussion is the incorporation of Tangier in the Spanish zone of Morocco, a question which the Government of Spain is anxious to have settled before the Spanish sovereigns sail for Morocco on October 4th.

Conversations Postponed. PARIS, Sept. 30th. The Journal of Madrid states that the Sir Austen Chamberlain and Dictator Primo Di Rivera conversations were postponed till today. As Sir A. Chamberlain had not arrived at Barcelona until late yesterday night owing to the breakdown of his yacht's engine.

A Semi-Official Denial.

MADRID, Sept. 30th. A semi-official communiqué categorically denies the statements in the foreign Press that the Spanish Government desires to settle the Tangier question before the Spanish King and Queen visit Morocco. It declares that the conversation between Sir A. Chamberlain and General Primo Di Rivera has nothing to do with the Tangier question, and that General Primo Di Rivera simply wished to greet the British Minister on the occasion of his visit to a Spanish port.

MR. STERLING FESSENDEN.

SHANGHAI'S POPULAR MUNICIPAL CHAIRMAN ENTERTAINED.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

SHANGHAI, Sept. 29th. This evening about 200 members of the Shanghai Club celebrated Mr. Sterling Fessenden's 52nd birthday. Mr. Fessenden is the chairman of the Municipal Council. After eulogistic speeches by the American Consul-General, Mr. Cunningham, the French Consul-General, Mr. Nagai, the Chief Judge, Mr. Peter Grain, and the American Attorney, Judge Franklin, regarding Mr. Fessenden's services to Shanghai, Sir Sidney Barton presented Mr. Fessenden with a casket containing "Views of Shanghai" photographed by all present.

Mr. Fessenden, responding, said he believed Shanghai's future depended on all nationalities working for the maintenance of peace and order. He sternly denounced all the parties who were attempting to force the hands of the Powers, by causing "incidents," and called upon all nationalities to use their influence to prevent any split in the present administration, while pointing out that some nationalities were justifiably demanding a greater voice in the administration of Shanghai.

ANGLO-FRENCH LOAN.

WILL PEKING GOVERNMENT DEFAULT?

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

PEKING, September 29th. It is feared that the Government will default on the interest of the Anglo-French Loan due to bondholders on October 3th. It has not yet been paid into the banks, as it should have been.

MANCHESTER COTTON CONFERENCE.

DETAILS OF THE AGREEMENT.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

LONDON, Sept. 29th. The agreement which has been reached at the Cotton Conference at Manchester, as reported yesterday, provides that the "cotton" of production should be dealt with according to the method of treating all alike, regardless of the amount of work they have in hand and the state of their stocks.

A system of basic prices will be fixed according to the prices of the current month futures, plus points 0 and something for costs.

While all branches of the cotton industry express satisfaction with the agreement, Sir E. Shackleton doubts whether the agreement will result in anything more than a temporary alleviation of the position. He emphasised the necessity of curtailing production on an economic basis in order to meet competition satisfactorily.

Sir Charles Macara declared, "two bodies with no compulsory powers and without the co-operation of the operatives can hardly expect to succeed."

THE GERMAN FLIERS.

KOENNECKE CRASHES AT BAGDAD.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

BAGDAD, Sept. 30th. Koennecke crashed in attempting to take off on the resumption of his flight. The machine was damaged, but Koennecke and his two companions were not injured.

PACIFIC FLIERS.

CONVICT REGION DRAWS SETTLERS.

RELEASED MEN RETURN WITH FAMILIES.

CONTENTED ANDAMAN ISLANDS.

CALCUTTA.

Transportation to the Andamans, once the most severe sentence in the Indian Penal Code, under the humane ideas of to-day has almost become a form of State-aided emigration.

A batch of Moplah convicts has recently returned to Calicut in Malabar to take their families back to the new settlement. One of these convict settlers said that he intended to remain in the Andamans permanently. This settler explained that he was engaged in trade and agriculture and that the Government rendered the Moplah colonists every help in the matter of trade, agriculture, and other avocations, by financing them liberally.

Government Mosques And Schools.

The Moplah population of the Andamans are, in fact, thriving and quite happy and contented. Most of them have taken to farming. Paddy is their most important crop, but during the last two years they have planted more than 5,000 coconut plants and started banana plantations. The women, if anything, fare better than the men. The Government has constructed nine mosques and 11 schools for the benefit of the Moplah population, and instruction is imparted in Urdu, Malayalam and English.

This particular Moplah congratulated by saying that Moplahs in the districts of Ernad and Wailuvand, who are in distress owing to the after-effects of the Moplah rebellion in 1924 and other causes, they would migrate to the Andamans, where, extensive tracts of land were available for reclamation and cultivation. The soil was fertile; they had the great advantage of Government assistance, and no attack had been made on the settlers by the forest tribes for some years now.—O. S. Majumdar.

WEEK-END SPORT.

WHAT IS ON THE CARD.

OPENING OF FOOTBALL SEASON.

This week-end there is again another fair programme of sport. The football season opens as regards the League and there is a full and complete programme in three divisions. Then there is also plenty of cricket both for to-day and to-morrow. In addition, there is an interport bowls trial match and a Rugby match, also golf and a swimming gala.

To-day's Events.

To-day the big attractions are football and cricket.

With regard to the former the complete fixture list is published in the diary of events and also in our sports columns. The matches are played on the ground of the first-mentioned team, and all commence between 3.15 and 4.15 p.m. Two senior League matches have been arranged for next Wednesday, between the R.A.F. and the Scots Guards, and the Police and South China. They will be played on the U.S.R.C. ground and the Club ground, respectively.

Additional interest is given to the League struggle this year in view of the "unknown quantities" in the Service, and, especially the military teams. There are three new military teams competing, and of these, the Queen's Regiment have a very fine forward line. They meet the champions of last year, the Club de Recreo.

Cricket.

Although the Cricket League has not yet opened, the various clubs are getting into full swing with practice matches, and no fewer than six friendly matches have been arranged for this afternoon. As will be seen by the fixture-list, the Club play against the 15th Brigade, and the Kowloon Cricket Club, champion of last season, who have twice this past week lost to service sides, are again up against a military combination.

To-morrow there are three more friendly matches, particulars of which are given elsewhere in this issue.

Other Events.

There is an important sporting event at the Craigengower Cricket Club this afternoon, this being the third trial match in connection with the Interport Lawn Bowls match, which is to take place within the next two weeks. Particulars will be found in another column. This may not be the last trial, although it is likely to be. But as the Shanghai team do not arrive until the 10th inst., there will still be time for another one next week-end, if thought necessary by the Selection Committee who may still find some trouble in coming to a final decision.

There is golf at Fanling during the week-end for the Captain's Cup, and to-morrow the annual presentation of trophies at the Kowloon Golf Club takes place.

To-morrow also there is a swimming gala for Service men at the Kowloon United Services Club, Kowloon Dock Bathing Beach, of which particulars have already appeared in these columns. The recent concerts given on Sundays at the Dock Bathing Beach have been held with the object of obtaining funds for this event.

To-day's Games.

The League season opens to-day with 4 games in the senior division, 5 in the junior "A" and 4 in the junior "B."

Caroline Hill, United Services and Yaumati grounds are available for civilian games and a good season is anticipated.

The Scouts Guards, Queen's Regt. and R.A.F. will increase the number of Service teams in the league. They have each entered the senior division only.

A new team, which will most probably comprise the players of South China, has entered the junior "B" as Kung Woon.

A large number of referees have registered for this season, fourteen being out to-day while others are on the waiting list.

It is out of the question to predict the results of to-day's games, but all the senior games will be keenly contested.

The game that should attract a good following, should be seen on the United Services ground where the Queen's meet the champions, Club de Recreo. The Recreo will depend almost on last season's players, with J. Silva leading the attack in place of Gosano, who will be inside right.

Kowloon are at home to the Guards and this game should be worth seeing.

Chinese will crowd the slopes overlooking the Club ground, as the majority that crowd the goal ends cannot afford to pay to see the game from the new stands.

Gerrard will lead the attack and the Athletic defence will have to be on top form to keep him out.

At Sookunpoo the K.O.S.B. meet the Police, while the R.A. meet South China on the Happy Valley ground.

The Hong Kong Club will have a strong side out in the junior game and should annex the points.

Kowloon Reserves will meet the "A" division champions at Sookunpoo and a win for the "Kosbies."

Hong Kong entered for the Interport Cup.

The question of Chan So being ordered off was referred to the Council but was dropped, the game being played in the close season.

LOCAL CRICKET.

WEEK-END FIXTURES.

Cricket has begun early, and though it is still a trifle warm for the game, most of the Clubs will be engaged over the week-end. It is particularly pleasing to see Service sides in four out of the six matches down for to-day.

The Hong Kong Cricket Club open their season to-day and play a team from the Garrison on the Club ground. In view of the approaching Interport, it will be interesting to see how the "early birds" shape. Last year's champions, the Kowloon Cricket Club, engage the 15th Infantry Brigade in a whole day match commencing at 11.30 a.m., while the Queen's Royal Regt. and the Northants are opposed to the Civil Service and University, respectively.

Three are three matches to-morrow and the programme for the two days is—

To-day.

Hong Kong C.C. v. Garrison. Police v. Hong Kong C.C. 2nd XI.

Civil Service v. Queen's Royal Regiment.

Indian R.C. v. Craigengower. Kowloon C.C. v. 15th Infantry Brigade (11.30 a.m.).

University v. Northants.

To-morrow.

Indian R.C. v. China Light and Power.

University v. St. Peter's Young Volunteers Club.

H.K. Volunteers v. Indian R.C., at the Chinese R.C. ground.

K.O.C. Beaten By Air Force.

The Kowloon Cricket Club, last year's Cricket League champions, were again defeated on Thursday in a friendly cricket match. Last Saturday they were beaten by four wickets by the military subscribers, who knocked up 200 for seven wickets (in a twelve aside match) against Kowloon's 131.

On Thursday, the Royal Air Force beat the K.C.C. side by just over one hundred runs.

The Air Force batted first, and declared for 150 runs for eight wickets, but the K.C.C. could only reply with 50 runs. W. Brace contributed 57 runs for the Air Force.

Capt. F. G. Bevis (88 runs) was practically the only scorer for the K.C.C.

Brace also took four wickets for 6 runs, and Lieut. J. H. Dale three wickets for 13 runs.

H.K.C.C. v. Garrison XI.

On H.K.C.C. ground to-day at 2 p.m.

H.K.C.C.—T. E. Pearce (capt.), A. W. Hayward, H. V. Parker, J. R. Hinton, O. Moor, A. Reid, T. E. Hammond, C. D. Wales, J. A. Summers, H. J. Armstrong and W. Fiddes Wilson.

Indian Merchants v. L.F. Co. 2nd Scots Guards.

This friendly match will be played on the Shamshupo camp ground on Sunday, at 2 p.m. sharp.

Indian Merchants—Y. T. Maring (captain), H. T. Barma, H. Pritam, A. S. A. Kyam, Utomai, Karanja, F. T. Melvani, Namanbhoi, L. A. Mahtani, Poonawalla, and Sobhraj.

THE SHANGHAI TEAM.

The hon. secretary of the H.K.C.C. has received a telegram announcing that the Shanghai team, for the interport matches, are leaving by the President Grant and expect to be here on November 19th.

According to present arrangements the Straits team are likely to reach Hong Kong about November 16th.

ARMS FOR BOLSHIEVS.

EMBARGO IN AMERICA.

NEW YORK.

The American State Department has placed an unofficial embargo on the shipment of arms to Russia by disapproving the sale of 150,000 rifles to Soviet agents here.

When a representative of both parties to the negotiations for the sale called at the State Department at Washington recently, he was informed that the American Government was opposed to such action, although there is no actual prohibition of the shipment. If the official warning is ignored, and an effort is made to ship the rifles aboard a vessel, it is believed the Government will actively intervene.

The fact that Soviet agents are seeking arms here indicates to the Washington authorities that the European market is closed to Russia.

INTERPORT BOWLS.

TO-DAY'S TRIAL MATCH AT HAPPY VALLEY.

NUMBER ONE PROBLEM.

[By "A. B. S."]

Speculation is still keen as to who the selectors for the interport lawn bowls match against Shanghai (which will probably be played on October 13th) will pick for the No. 1 position. Unfortunately they cannot see beyond the four who were picked for the first two trials—and are not likely to change their opinion as the result of the third trial match to be played on the green of the C.C.C. at Happy Valley, this afternoon (if the rain does not spoil things). They had a good chance in the second trial when McLeod failed to appear, as they could easily have put a better player in; the position then McCubbin, who has not even been in the open singles championship—usually a criterion of the play of the No. 1's. They first chose Whiteford, but he stood down, and then it was thought the ground coolie (who gave an exhibition game on his own before the trial game) would have a chance—or perhaps one of the baseball players who happened to be in the Valley that afternoon. Which tends to emphasise that the Selection Committee have their ideas which not even two trial matches can shake in spite of the practically unanimous opinion of bowlers (including those on the green) that the four No. 1's had failed in both games. There seems to be a lot of "boasting" going on for Atkinson—probably on the same principle that he did well a couple of years ago, just as some sentimentalists favoured Omar figuring in the trials because he did well at Shanghai last year! The form of last year is not the form of to-day, any more than is the form of the beginning of the season. Omar was put out of the running in the open championship in the first round, this season, and has been kept for the C.C.C. all season. Still, he was better than Atkinson, Laing, or Owick in the second trial match. Which may not be saying much, of course, but the point is only mentioned as worth noting that Omar is only reserve to-day. And there is no point in having trial matches if the selectors are purblind to the form—or lack of form—shown in these same matches. Personally I would not have any of the quartette on my mind; and in this I am not alone, judging by the numerous comments heard during the progress of both trial matches.

(Coming to the No. 2's it seems to be a toss up between Bass and Smith, chiefly owing to the good display of the latter in the second trial, playing on his own green. Both are erratic. Bass starts poorly and improves. Smith starts good, or fairly good, and falls away. That is not too promising for an interport game, is it? I would like to see other two men given a trial before passing a final verdict.

For No. 3 I fail to see what is to hinder Fendered filling the bill better than would Cullen or Holland. Against Wallace as skip Fendered did better than the average temperamental skip would have done, and he outclassed Gray in the second trial. He would, I consider, make an ideal No. 3 for Wallace as skip.

Wallace, of course, has things all his own way as skip against Shanghai. He was, as previously stated, "uncanny" against Fendered and he had nothing to beat in Macfarlane in the second trial. He will have to play very poorly to-day to lose his position.

The teams for to-day are as under—(Atkinson, Smith, Holland Wallace (skip), Bass, Cullen Fendered (skip).

Reserves: Omar and Macfarlane.

For months and months all sorts of stories have been floating down from the North that the Shanghai team was to be the "best ever."

Now that the names have been published it seems that the bowlers on the North are experiencing some difficulty in getting away during the continued unsettled state of affairs.

Atkinson stands out on his own, if he is still in the same form that Hong Kong bowlers know (to their cost) and Main may be ranked next, judging by his displays in the Colony two years ago. Many then held that had Main been skip instead of Phillips, the match would have been won by Shanghai. Of course we do not know whether Main will play as well on the C.C.C. green as he did at Taikeo. Of the others in the Shanghai team, none actually came here and show us what they can do. If they are better than the local No. 1's and No. 2's then Wallace and Fendered (or Cullen) will have their work cut out to pull off a win for Hong Kong.

YACHTING NOTES.

[By "CHAU KUNG."]

With the October holiday drawing near considerable activity is noticeable with various units of the Yacht Club Fleet and to hasten those who may have delayed I give the draft of the arrangements for the Club Cruise over the week-end of October 5th-10th.

To cheat the tide it will be necessary to leave early and the 1st gun of the season will be fired at 1.55 p.m. on Saturday, 5th, as a preparatory for the start at 2 for all classes.

Those who do not wish to race should note that the rendezvous is at the head of Junk Bay to the West and South of Hang Hau. It is expected that Typhoon, Curlew, Vorseman, Queen Bee, U. and I., Dorothy II, Imogen, Feathers and possibly others of the Cruiser Class will be there whilst the Racing Classes will be represented by Dorchester, Colleen, Way Wanderer, Wings, Bluenose, Bonjumi, Adele, Lola.

On Sunday 9th there will be a race in the morning to Joss House Bay via Tathong Rock to port (whether permitting) where tiffin will be taken. After tiffin it is suggested that it should be "Go as you please" to the rendezvous in Repulse Bay, if southerly winds make it necessary then at Deep Water Bay.

On Monday 10th in the morning race round Ngan Chau (S) to Waterfall Bay where tiffin be taken. In the afternoon boats will return to Hong Kong as they please.

Will those members who intend taking part in the Cruise please send their names to the Sailing Secretary of the Yacht Club. Mr. J. R. L. Stanton, c/o China Underwriters, St. George's Bldg. Telephone C. 1121.

Co. V. Coates has disposed of Sealark to the Royal Engineers' Mess who have renamed her Wings. The mess have sold Gael to an officer of the Scots Guards.

Mr. Griffiths, who is going on leave shortly, has sold Chinook to Mr. Nicolson who is fitting her out for the season. There are other sales pending which will probably be completed before the opening Cruise on 22nd inst.

The Ocean Race at home, starting from Cowes round the Fastnet light and finishing at Plymouth, was won by Lord Salbridge's Tally Ho a cutter designed by Albert Strange about 20 years ago; she beat the American designed schooner Cioletta by about 2 hours after a very stormy passage.

Conor O'Brien who had taken his Savirne round the world was unable to beat down the channel against the storm and ran for shelter as did a previous winner Julie Drive and the schooner Nicarag which crossed from America especially for the race. These two were weather bound at Falmouth for 20 hours. The owner and skipper of the latter who is 23 years old stated it was weather much worse than anything experienced in crossing the Atlantic.

The race is for boats of not more than 50 feet on the waterline or about the over all length of the Lady Jean. Tally Ho is about 36 feet on the waterline with 11 feet of beam, 7 of draft and sail area just over 1,700 square ft.—a typical cruising cutter met on the English Coast. She would be beaten out of sight by a modern fast cruiser in light weather but is able to keep the seas when the other has to make port for shelter.

There must be a great attraction in this race for 1 hear that entries are already being made for the race in August next.

May I remind owners that the racing season is drawing near and if they wish to get their craft into proper trim it is high time they were in the water. Tides, Time and Starting Guns wait for no man.

A BASELESS LEGEND.

the Yearly Journey.

• Symbol Of Compassion.

The conduct of Juggernaut's blood-stained course is without actual basis of any kind; except that, in the crush of so vast a concourse of pilgrims, most of them eager to have a hand in the pulling of the car, it was inevitable that on such days of British regulation, that casualties should occur, and by no means unlikely that an occasional not unwilling victim should be crushed under the wheels. But it is important to note that both the official statistics and the missionaries have long since thrown over the all-popular story and its implications. The sight of their great car and the excited multitude could easily give rise to the legends of terror. It is more difficult to understand how for so long a time Juggernaut and his compassionate character.—The Japan Chronicle.

proved wholesome enough in the case of Eskimo and some explorer expeditions it will not be necessary for the Arctic colonists to subsist on it entirely; transport facilities will allow every man to get his food from the Norsemen suffering less from insufficiency of certain ingredients in their diet, a similar fate will not be the lot of those colonists of the future. If they died out by lack of new blood among themselves during the first years, settlers of the future will be able to avoid that disaster. Such is the legitimate forecast, as I see it, of the outer rim of the Arctic of the future with its prosperous, though scattered, colonists of pastoral life, herds of reindeer and sheep, and thus supplying high-priced Arctic furs in limited numbers."

—A letter posted sixty-three years ago has just arrived at its destination.

Western office and here we salvaged the most interesting of the duplicates. The official who was charged it did not look at the stamp intelligently or excess postage would not have been charged.

"It was sent out for delivery on the early morning of November 30th, 1895, and must have been put in the day box in which your letter-box was attached.

"I expect there was a crack in the floor, the letter fell through into the foundations and has been lying there safely until it was found by the dog and posted again in a few days ago."

Inquiries were made on the site in Upper Baker-street, now being excavated for a block of flats, but the workman who posted it could not be traced, though it was stated that the dog was a small one, of a mongrel order had been found.

The Rev. P. W. Taylor, vicar of Bere Regis church (the "King's here" where the D'Urbervilles lived and are buried), said:—
"I am sorry this story of troglodytes has got about. It is totally untrue, and I might as well say malicious. Hundreds of Hardy enthusiasts visit the church and they are always reverent and thoughtful."

the idea of a self-sufficient Spain, and these two influences pulled the Spanish Government in opposite directions. The Government was to be made immune from the consequences of their backward methods or natural disadvantages and the country was to be compelled to build up industries to meet all their requirements in time of war. The Government was to revise the outstanding commercial agreements, or else the use of methods defeating the spirit, but not the letter, of the agreements. Both these alternatives have been resorted to by the Directorate.

policy pretexts. Unfortunately the urban population is not large, and if the countryside is apathetic, the Government may balance to the support of the big industrialists against the discontent of labor and the middle-class bourgeoisie. Indeed, those who hope for a automatic re-adjustment to normal economic ways cannot get much encouragement. The only other method of persuading Spain of her folly is to give constant public notice of the economic situation which may heed us. The present time when revision of the tariff is being discussed, is peculiarly appositional for some such statement, and it is with this end in view that I write. Let Spain pause that she hereafter realize that it is not whether the goal is in sight—Financial News.

A Hike, Then a Swim

To add to the pleasure and enjoyment of your voyage, that's why all President Liners have swimming pools. They are always available and are immensely popular.

The magnificent President Liners are broad of beam and exceptionally steady. All are oil burners, swift express liners. The public rooms are luxuriously appointed and inviting. All state-rooms are outside, splendidly furnished and equipped with beds—no berths. Each room has hot and cold running water, also fans, wardrobe, thermos bottles and reading lamps. Private bath and showers in connection with many rooms perfect the travel comfort of these giant passenger liners. The Cuisine is world famous. The deliciously prepared meals will delight you. And how the orchestra adds zest to your dining. The decks are spacious. The Glass-enclosed Promenade always popular. Deck sports, open air swimming pool, movies, evening dances, everything has been done to make your trip a happy one. Unexcelled anywhere—is the courteous and efficient service accorded you by the trained personnel aboard the President Liners. The great frequency of sailings and the liberal stopover privileges of the Dollar Steamship and American Mail Lines have made these giant passenger liners outstandingly popular among travelers.

GHOST RIVERS OF LONDON.

STREAMS THAT FLOW UNDER STREETS.
THE WALBROOK, TYBURN AND FLEET.

Most Londoners, reading of the Cornhill subside, have been surprised to know that the ancient and historic river, the Walbrook, on whose banks the Romans built their villages, still winds its way to the Thames twenty feet below modern London.

It is not by any means the only ghost-river possessed by London. Eighteen centuries ago a traveler approaching London from the west would have been obliged to ford four important rivers before he found himself in the little red-roofed Roman town near the present Bank of England. The first was the Tyburn, the second the Fleet, the third the Walbrook, and the fourth the River Thames, whose banks stood Roman London.

All four now lie many feet below the present level of London. They are built over, confined in culverts, or incorporated, most unromantically, in the main drainage system; but at least three of them are still alive and trickling!

The Westbourne rises in the Hampstead and Highgate hills, flows south to Knightsbridge, which owes its name to a bridge that spanned the Westbourne there. Two knights are said to have had a fierce battle on this bridge. The old stream is now carried by the Ranelagh sewer, the pipes of which follow, approximately, the ancient course of the Westbourne. No doubt many Londoners have noticed a huge culvert running fifteen feet above the platform of Sloane-square Underground Station. That culvert contains all that is left of the Westbourne! The water is discharged in the Thames about 200 yards above Chelsea Bridge.

The Tyburn rose at Shepherd's Well, at the top of Fitzjohn's-avenue, and was reinforced from the site of Beaton's House. It ran the south across Regent's Park, across Oxford-street, near Gec-court, Stratford-place, then flowing behind Bond-street, it followed the line of South Molton-lane, Avery-row, Little Bruton-street, South Bruton Mews, and across the bottom of Berkeley-square.

It then ran through the narrow passage which used to mark off the gardens of Devonshire and Lansdowne Houses, flowed across Piccadilly, across the Green Park, under the site of Buckingham Palace, where it divided into three streams. The first ran to the Thames, via Vauxhall Bridge-road, the second into St. James' Park, the third through the Abbey grounds of Westminster, where the monks of that day made it turn a millwheel named the Abbot's Mill. (The name survives in Millbank.) What has happened to the Tyburn? In 1812 it was confined within a dark sewer which poured its waters into the Thames 300 yards above Vauxhall Bridge. In 1885, when the Metropolitan St. John's Wood Railway was constructed, this sewer was cut, and was apparently never joined again. Mr. J. George Head, the surveyor, and an expert on London's buried rivers, stated in a lecture some years ago that if the Tyburn still flows it is probably making its way along its old channel.

He said also that if the curiously winding streets of Mayfair are examined they suggest that they were formed in the first place by the course of the stream.

The Fleet, or Holbourne (hence Holborn) is undoubtedly the most lively of all the buried rivers of London.

One branch of it rose near the Vale of Health, Well-walk, Hampstead. In the old days it flowed south, gaining tributaries, towards King's Cross. Some idea of the Fleet's size in remote times can be gained by the fact that the deep valley between Fleet-street and Ludgate-hill was cut by its torrents.

In medieval days ships used to sail up and anchor at Holborn Bridge. In Georgian days the Fleet Ditch became a synonym for dead ends, so the river was arched over. In 1855 it was made part of the metropolitan sewer, where it still flows quite vigorously, emptying itself into the Thames at Blackfriars. At low tide a cloud of sea gulls mark the outlet.

A Mighty River. The Walbrook, which flows north across the Bank of England, and formerly emptied itself into the Thames at Doggate, was a mighty river in Roman times. Its mouth was 200 ft. broad. On its banks stood fair villas. Gallies sailed up as far as Bucklersbury.

Mr. Head has described the hidden rivers of London as follows:—There are trickling rivulets of pure water buried deep under our feet, creeping along the old channels with quiet persistence. They are the ghosts of the rivers that once beautified London Town, and in the words of the old historian, "Whose sweet, wholesome, and clear waters flowed rippling over the bright stones."

The "ghosts," as the water below Cornhill proves, can haunt and startle London!

DRAMATIC SEA RESCUES.

MOTHER AND GIRL OF 17 SAVED.

FIVE HEROES.

BARRY (GLAMORGAN).

Thousands of people at Cold Knapp Bay, Barry, to-day, witnessed the thrilling rescue of a mother and daughter, who were bathing, by five men, two of whom were policemen in uniform.

The girl, Miss Joan Rees, aged seventeen, of Barry, was in danger of drowning, and her mother was making gallant efforts to reach her when she, too, became exhausted, and both disappeared.

Three men rushed into the water. They were Mr. Edward Evans, of Penarth, the only one who was in bathing costume, Mr. A. James, of Barry, and another, who disappeared afterwards without revealing his name.

Girl Unconscious.

While two of the men went to the aid of the mother, Mr. Evans swam to where Miss Rees had disappeared and seized the unconscious girl. He had great difficulty in making headway shorewards, and the two policemen, Constable Mortimer Evans, a local Rugby player, and Constable Gwyn Davies, dived in and helped him to bring the girl ashore.

Her mother, who was also unconscious, had meanwhile been rescued. Artificial respiration was applied, but it was five hours before the two women had fully regained consciousness.

DAILY WATERFRONT NEWS.

THE C.N.C. DISPUTE.

EFFECT ON BANGKOK-HANG KONG CARGOES.

[ST LONGHOREMAN.]

The C.N.C. strike is at length concluded, and when the ships which have been lying up are all in commission again, cargoes will have to be found for them. This may be comparatively easy, on the China coast, where, we read, cargo has been accumulating due to shortage of tonnage, but it will certainly not be the case in the Bangkok-Hong Kong runs, says the Bangkok Times.

The Bangkok shipping returns for July and August tell their own tale as far as British shipping is concerned, and the strike terminated so recently, that the returns for September will show but a little change.

Strike or no strike rice had to be exported, and in July and August 268,494 tons of rice went out of the country, Hong Kong absorbing 73,000 tons. It was not carried in British bottoms, and freight to Hong Kong continued steady at fifty cents a picul throughout this period.

That is bad enough; but what will be more difficult will be to persuade millers now that they have commenced to work again.

Chinese Deck Passengers.

The total number of Chinese deck passengers entering the Colony during the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday was 1,146.

On The Run.

The s.s. Kwong Fook Cheung, a Hong Kong-Kongmoon boat, which entered dock for repair a few days ago, was put on the run between Hong Kong and Kongmoon again yesterday.

In Dock.

The s.s. Chaochow is now in dock under repair and will resume her run between Hong Kong and Swatow on Monday.

Died At Sea.

The master of the P. & O. liner Kashmir reports that Mr. A. D. Hendry, late of the Shanghai Police and a passenger from London to Singapore, died of heart failure on September 13th, his body being buried at sea.

SHIPPING MOVEMENTS.

The B.I. and Apcar Line s.s. Tilawa will leave Amoy for Hong Kong to-morrow afternoon, and is due here on the afternoon of October 3rd.
